Overflowing onto the next page, which exists already, so no new page is made for this text that runs over the bottom.

Columns without
reflowing margins:
past the last column
the next page starts at the same height as the box did on its first page, column by

column, page by page,
until the text runs out at last.

Reflowing
margins: past
the last column the next page
starts at the top of the
margin box,

so the
columns are
taller there
than on the first page of the box, which started lower
down on its

page.

as long as it takes to
set all of this text.
